=====PROJECT UPDATE=====

January 12, 2011

As of December 29, 2010, the status of the Sherritt Dodds-Roundhill Coal Gasification remains unchanged. As per the Alberta Environment website, the Final Terms Reference were issued for this project on November 5, 2007 and the project remains on hold while the company evaluates options. The next step would be the submission of the Environmental Impact Assessment. You can follow any changes in the status of the project at any time by clicking on the above link. The Alberta Environment website is updated regularly.

FYI - The Sturgeon Blueline Group started in July, 2009, as a group of concerned citizens who had been notified that their land and property (alternate route) would potentially be affected by the proposed Bill 50 Heartland Transmission Line.

Since that time "Landowners Against Bills" (which the Sturgeon Blueline Group is a part of) has been born and has assumed the goal of keeping Albertans informed on the recent legislation of Bill's 19, 36, and 50. It is their intent to expose this legislation and inform Albertans about the state of our future. Click Here to view their website for more information on this group and what they are doing to keep Albertans united and informed on these issues.
